Acknowledgements

This RAP survey would not have been possible without the help and assistance of many organizations and individuals. Foremost we thank the Fiji Water Foundation for the funds to enable this RAP survey to be carried out. CI's RAP Unit also assisted in funding a number of the overseas researchers who were part of the RAP team.

We thank the following organizations for providing personnel for the RAP survey: South Pacific Regional Herbarium (SPRH), Biology Division and the Institute of Applied Sciences of the University of the South Pacific, Conservation International, Fiji Government's Department of Agriculture (Research Division) and Department of Forests, National Trust of Fiji, Fiji Museum, Wetlands International – Oceania, NatureFiji-Mareketi Viti, the Ra Provincial Office, The National University of Singapore (Systematics and Ecology Laboratory), Texas A & M University and the University of Canterbury, New Zealand.

We thank the Ra and Tailevu Provincial Councils and Offices for assisting in the process of securing approvals from the traditional forest owners. Thank you to the Vanua of Bure-I-vanua, Nakorotubu, Nakuilava, Naloto and Sawakasa for their approval and blessings.

The RAP was a success due to the outstanding contribution of the following individuals most of whom are affiliated to the above mentioned institutions. We appreciate the assistance of Shalen, Anare Caucau, David Boseto, Kini Koto, Alivereti Naikatini, Jone Niukula, Senivalati Vido, Isaac Rounds, Nunia Thomas, Hilda Waqa-Sakiti, Leeanne Alonso, Elia Nakoro, Gillianne Brodie, Milen Marinov, Sefanaia Nawadra, Senilolia Tuiwawa, Arthur Whistler, and Lekima Copeland.

Special thank you to the local land-owning communities of Bucalevu, Soa, Matuku, Nalidi, Nasau and Verevere villages for their support and generous hospitality. We also thank all our local field guides and porters for their indispensable help and enthusiasm throughout the survey.
